What is PyConES?

PyConES is the biggest Python conference taking place in Spain!

It's the main event where professionals, developers, and enthusiasts meet and share about Python. Since the very beginning, it has settled as the key Python conference in Spain, offering a safe space to share knowledge and cutting-edge tech innovations. But mostly, to connect the people actively working on it!

This 2025 we are pleased to announce the 13rd edition in Seville!! Seville offers a unique, strategic city where technology and culture meet. Throughout the event, the assistants will attend a wide variety of talks, workshops, and open spaces to discuss about trending topics: Machine Learning, Artificial Intelligence, Data Science, Web Development, DevOps, among others.

PyConES25

Seville, at a glance

Seville has become one of the most visited cities in Spain thanks to its history, wider culture, and warm hospitality. Its blazing architecture and points of interest offer a superb basement where tradition and modernity meet, creating an unforgettable experience for PyConES 2025 attendees.

If that wasn't enough, the place has great offers in hotels, gastronomy, and free time activities. Visitors won't forget this experience! Every single place you visit will leave you with great vibes thanks to its charming environment, getting the most out of the event by exploring and living what Seville really is.

Pablo de Olavide University, where everything happens

An Iconic University

Founded in 1997, the Pablo de Olavide University (by its initials in Spanish, UPO) is a young institution pursuing innovation and excellence through a multidisciplinary model. It has been declared Cultural Interest Good back in 2008. The whole campus combines authenticity and modernity in a privileged environment.

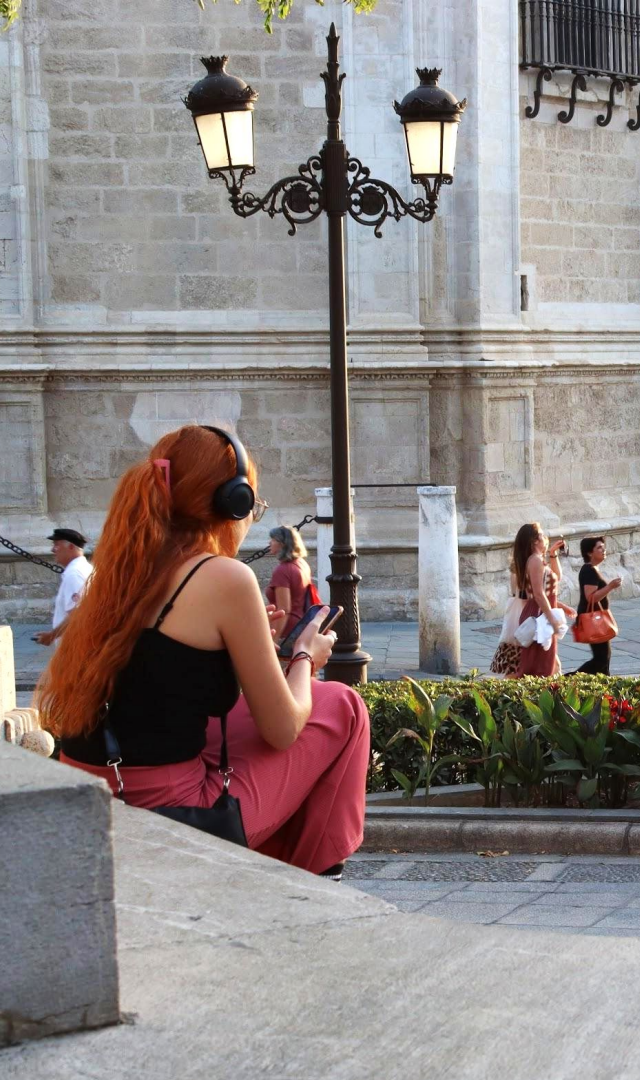

Location & Accessibility

The UPO is built around a compact but modern campus, where more than 30 buildings are found next to plenty of open spaces, the best for networking and sharing. It's quite easy to get there thanks to the underground (L1), bus stations, bike lanes, and direct access through the highway (A-376).

PyConES, the event

PyConES is not only a place to learn and get up with the latest technology. It's also the greatest networking opportunity, where professionals, companies, and the community can collaborate, engage, and explore new horizons.

All that combined with the fact that Seville will offer everything for this experience to outlast: Modern spaces, great cultural activities, and a charming atmosphere for everyone - attendees, speakers, and sponsors!

If you ever heard about Python, are interested in it, or just want to engage and know the community, PyConES is the right choice!

See you later this 2025 at Seville 🦁!

What do you take away from PyConES?

Connect with Industry Leaders

Representatives from leading companies, educational institutions, and research centers across the country gather around one of the most relevant technologies in their respective fields. This event provides an exceptional platform to position your company or product before the ideal audience—engaged and committed to the world of Python..

Boost Your Technological Development

With nearly 800 attendees in the previous edition, PyConES provides the opportunity to showcase your products and services to a significant audience, both nationally and internationally. It is the ideal place to highlight your brand and present your technological solutions to a community passionate about innovation.

High-Impact Networking

The conference covers the latest technological trends related to Python. You will have the opportunity to gain clear insights into the evolution of the language and its community while connecting with professionals from various disciplines. This collaborative and learning-focused environment is perfect for building new relationships, sharing ideas, and strengthening ties with key industry players.

Reach a Global and Specialized Audience

If your company uses Python, there is no better event in Spain to connect with a vast group of professionals who have the technological skills you need. PyConES offers an unparalleled platform for talent acquisition, bringing companies together with top developers, data scientists, and artificial intelligence experts.
